GIRLS' PREPARATORY SCHOOL

1954

As the kaleidoscope turns past another year, the colors of our lives fall into a new pattern. Always we will remember:

"The friendships formed here ever of the best:
On them, on thee, our hearts in love shall rest."

This is the "Kaleidoscope"—a small remembrance of the fun we had, the knowledge we acquired, and the friends we'll keep.

CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE

DEDICATION

MRS. STANLEY ADDIS

To "Madame," whose zest and good nature always make her French class overflow with interest and wit; whose mind is ever open to those in need of sound or sympathetic encouragement; and whose actions mark "une vraie grande dame," we, the Senior class, fondly dedicate this annual.

DEDICATION

MRS. FRANK M. BAKER

To Mrs. Baker, whose classes have inspired us through two years of Spanish, we, the Senior class, dedicate this annual. Her dark beauty, her fascinating stories of her homeland Cuba, and her interest in each student make her a teacher loved by all. ¡Nos extrañarán muchisimo su sonrisa amistosa y su manera encantadora, Senora Baker!

MAY DAY PROGRAM

The theme for May Day this year was Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream." As the pageant unfolded and the various classes did their dances, the audience learned of Theseus', the Duke of Athens, love for Hippolyta, Queen of the Amazons. The young lovers, Hermia and Lysander, Demetrius and Helena, and Puck and Oberon found their happiness in the forest where the trees, hunters, fairies, and actors performed their tasks. The sophomore maypole dance brought the performance to a close.

Welfare Club

LAURA HANDLY
President

The Welfare Club is an organization supported by the entire student body. Each class has its own representative. Early in the school year the drive is distributed between the Chattanooga Junior Red Cross, Heart Association, Cancer Association, Care Packages, and Cerebral Palsy. The school also fills gift boxes to be sent overseas. At Thanksgiving there is a drive for canned goods for Pro Re Bona, and old clothes are collected. At Christmas time this year the school dressed forty dolls for the Salvation Army Christmas party, and some helped serve at the Glenwood Sanitarium Christmas party.

Senior Glee Club

The Senior Glee Club of the Girls' Preparatory School is composed of a group of girls from the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades. These girls are chosen for their fine voices and their considerate cooperation. This organization consists of girls who wish to prepare themselves for College Glee Club work and to further music appreciation among the members of the student body. The Glee Club presents concerts annually at Christmas time, at the Art and Music Festival in the spring, and at Commencement. It also gives programs at Baylor, at McCallie, and at various clubs and organizations in Chattanooga.

"Swimmers, to your mark, get set, go!" A loud splash was followed by the cries of "Come on Blacks!" and "Let's go Blues!" Thus began the first intramural contest of the year sponsored by the Athletic Association. The Athletic Association, of which each girl is a member, had its origin three years ago. It has as its purpose to promote good sportsmanship and to encourage school spirit through competitive sports both individual and team.

Know Your Bible Club

The Know Your Bible Club was founded in 1950; since then it has greatly enlarged. The purpose of this club is "to know Christ better." Through inspirational speakers and Biblical discussions the K.Y.B. Club acquaints its members with the teachings of the Holy Bible. Secondary to "knowing Him better" is the application of His teachings to our daily lives.

Theater Arts Club

CAROLE SULLIVAN
President

The Theater Arts Club was organized in 1952 to instruct its members in the arts of the theater. The members have learned how to apply make-up, to speak properly, to act upon a stage, to care for stage properties, and to put up scenery. The Theater Arts Club presents a play at the end of the year in which every member has a part either as an actress or as a member of the backstage crew.

Class History

Two and four years ago we, the seniors of 1954, descended upon the new building of G.P.S. at 731 Frazier Avenue, conceived in education and dedicated to the proposition that we must study. We were then engaged in a six years' struggle. It is for us, the seniors, to present a portion of our record to those who have not thus far so nobly advanced.

A bit frightened, yet eager to set out on another stage of our lives in a new and different world, we entered the seventh grade with smiling faces and trembling hands. When we had finally become somewhat adjusted, we elected Nancy Franklin to lead us as president. As our representative to the Honor Council, Mary Brooks was chosen in the second term. Our first dramatic production was the play, "Elsie in Bookland." On the festive side, Nancy Turnbull, Carole, Anne, Lois, and Sandra had the honor of serving as attendants to the May Queen.

Passing our first year, each of us entered the second phase of this new experience, happy that we had succeeded in the first and more ready to tackle the second. Muffet was chosen as our president; Joy and Dorothy were our representatives to the Student Council. Although we were sorry to lose Stella, Betty Vance, Mary Ann, Peggy, and Paty Jo, we were overjoyed to add to our ranks Sally, Harriette, Joan, Barbara, and Amy. Our second production in the field of dramatics was "Not Tonight" starring Don, Mary, Joy, Penelope, and Muffet.

The ninth grade started off with a bang. Since most of us had been at G.P.S. for two years, we felt just about as big as the seniors. We numbered fifty-four and had gained Rochelle, Joan Gough, Virginia, Laura, Nancy Pendergrass, Lender, and Michael. The verdant freshmen elected Eleanor to guide us in our third year. Assisting her in governing us were Charlotte and Nancy. In the field of our histrionic ability we presented "The Mad Breakfast." Was it ever!

Because of their good English grades, Marilyn, Sally, Judy, Muffet, Helen, Don, Mary Brooks, Mary, Nancy F., Pat, Susan, Nancy T., Joy, and Lois were elected to dust the books. With the exception of a few who couldn't hit the right notes, the whole ninth grade made up the Junior Glee Club under the direction of Mrs. Glenn. They later presented "Rex Gloria," "Slumber Boat," and "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes."

For May Day that year the theme was a flashback on the lives of Grandfather and Grandmother. Part of the more energetic freshman portrayed the women voters of 1930. The other part of the ninth grade were old-time friends of aged couples and did a dance in celebration of the couple's fiftieth anniversary. This brought to a close the ninth grade of 1951. As in the "Where, Oh Where's," the verdant freshmen became the gay young sophomores.

As jubilant sophomores we were led by capable Amy, as president, and Dorothy, as secretary. Unfortunately, we lost Marilyn, Pearl, Lender, and Peggy Joyce, but we gained Sylvia as a member of our happy band. To that wonderful informer of school affairs, the Static, we contributed three talented girls, Joy, Dorothy, Pat, and to keep us on "The straight and narrow path" we selected Joy and Susan Deakins as our representatives to the Student Council. Chosen because of their outstanding qualities, as well as brains, Susan Deakins, Joy, and Dorothy were elected to the National Honor Society. Many an off-key note was heard that year as we contributed Sarah Elizabeth, Harvey, Susan D., Eleanor Dixon, Nancy F., Helen, Don, Amy, Virginia, Carol, Dorothy, Ellie, Nancy Jo, Lynda, Pat, Frances, Sarah, Ann, Eleanor, and Mary Brooks to the Senior Glee Club.

Bidding "au revoir" to Shewmake, Penny, Laura, and Nancy Pendergrass, we entered our junior year by adding Thelma, Peggy, and Frances to our non-too-meager ranks. Hilda was our beautiful and capable president; and Charlotte, our silent tape recorder. The Static became "Of the School, By the School, and For the School" with Joy (originality!) as editor and Sue, Rochelle, Judy, Amy, Dorothy, Mary B., Pat, and Eleanor as the punch behind the drive. Our year was kept strictly in ranks by Eleanor, as our secretary of the Student Council, Susan Deakins, and Dorothy. Mary, Nancy Turnbull, Rochelle, Judy, Pat, Amy, and Mary B. received the recognition of the National Honor Society. Lynda, as vice-president and secretary of the Music Club, and Nancy Franklin, as president of the Art Workshop, kept up our cultural side. Rochelle, Presh, and Sue D. pounded the basketball court; and Rita, Cynthia, Dorothy, Sue D., Nancy T., and Sarah "volleyed" to become members of the volley-ball team. Mary and Sue D. were co-winners of the Grace McCallie Scholarship; Mary became "Marie" by winning the French award; Sue, "puella;" Sylvia, "senorita." Our year culminated in the destruction of Washington and the Bristol station. (Bunny hop!!)

The last year and the best was guided by President Judy and Secretary Thelma. Muffet headed the Welfare Club; Susan Stone, Le Francais; Lynda, Music Club; Carol, Glee Club; Michael, Camera Club; Nancy F., Art Workshop; Carole Sullivan, Theater Arts; Sue D., National Honor Society. Joy, the Most Active in School Affairs, was our scintillating editor of the annual with Amy, Mary, Nancy Franklin, Sarah, Lois, Mary B., Hilda, Nancy Turnbull, and Rochelle assisting. Hilda was our lovely May Queen, and Elizabeth, our Maid of Honor. Eleanor gained the highest esteem as president of the Student Council, with Pat, Dorothy, and Sue, as her colleagues. Carol Keese was elected most popular. In the first semester the National Honor Society took in Susan Stone, Sally Evans and Lois Winer.

The brave seniors who struggled here have learned far beyond the power to add or subtract. The school will little note, nor long remember what they said here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is rather for us the younger to be here dedicated to the task remaining before them—the unfinished work to which we, the seniors of Nineteen Hundred and Fifty-four, gave the last full measure of devotion.

P.S. Any similarity to the Gettysburg Address is purely coincidental.

Class Will

We, the class of 1954 will:

. . . our haloes and wings to the teachers who thought we were little angels. We're going to college now.

. . . our athletic ability to the Black team in hopes that the Blues will win the trophy next year.

I, Sarah E. Abernathy, will my trick knee to Mrs. Thomas, who tried to get one.

I, Sandra Allison, will my "Jeepster" to next year's seniors to provide transportation to and from the gym field.

I, Emilee Barnes, will my pink cheeks to Connie Cunningham, who is such a pale, emaciated child.

I, Charlotte Berryman, will my loyalty to Baylor to Gladys McCallie.

I, Maria Black, will my natural blond hair to Fletch Bryan, in case she gets that awful urge to peroxide it again.

I, Harvey Brewer, will my "White Rabbit" to Bunny Jones.

I, Pat Collins, will my dieting to Judy Pollard, who really needs it.

We, Deakins and Turnbull, will our first names back to ourselves, in hope that we may use them next year.

I, Rochelle Deitch, will my water skiis and motorboat to Cousin Marsha so that Chickamauga Lake won't be lonesome next spring for G.P.S. girls.

I, Eleanor Lee Dixon, will my pony tail to the Art Studio to use for paint brushes.

I, Sylvia Eubanks, will my uniforms to Sacks Frazier Avenue.

I, Sally Evans, will my quietness in French Class to Caroline Martin in hopes that Madame will not be annoyed by her talking in French Class next year.

I, Judy Finley, will my red hair and freckles to twin Marian in case she should lose hers.

We, Nancy Franklin and Pat Rimmer, will our hair flowers to the front yard which needs them.

I, Joan Gough, will what is left of me to college.

I, Muffet Handly, will my enviable figure and lovely, natural blond hair to Sandra Martin, who could use a little improvement.

I, Helen Harris, will my waist-line to Alice Morris to prevent her from wasting her allowance on a newer and better waist pincher.

I, Rita Harris, will my tallness to Peg McWhorter, who is so short that she could use a few added inches.

We, Don Hastings and Mary Brooks McKenzie, will our feet to the Chris-Craft Company as a model for their new cruisers.

I, Joan Heberer, will my trips to Sewanee to anyone who is lucky enough to get them.

I, Lillian Henry, will my desire for a driver's license to Caroline Martin, who has to ride the bus.

I, Amy Hoover, will my height to the Empire State Building.

I, Virginia Jackson, will nothing. I need everything I've got.

I, Carol Keese, will the uniforms that Jane willed to me to Nancy, hoping that they will fit her better.

I, Cynthia Lannes, will a can of oil to the lucky person who gets locker 163 next year.

I, Thelma Liles, will my blue chevrolet to Miss Bass, so she'll get to school on time next year.

I, Anne Lindsey, will my love of chewing gum to all the Study Hall teachers.

I, Dorothy McCall, will my athletic ability to Nan Chamberlain, who has never made the Varsity team.

I, Eleanor McDonald, will my inertia to Debby Place, who is so energetic.

I, Mary Moore, will—if I don't lose my nerve first.

Moi, Lynda Phillips, dans mon testament desire donner mon amour pour le theatre francais a Madamoiselle Carolyn Matchette qui adore "VRAIMENT" cette langue.

I, Lenora Jane Powell, will my long flowing locks to Agnes Donelson.

I, Peggy Raulston, will my pep and vivacity to Linda Preisler, who is such a quiet girl.

I, Hilda Reeves, will my love to study to Sister, who never cracks a book.

I, Nancy Reynolds, will my car to sister Carolyn, who will probably have it anyhow.

I, Elizabeth Richardson, will one of my yellow dresses to the Venus statue on the steps.

I, Frances Shepard, will my love for LaFayette to Mary Louise Chapman, who never goes near the town.

I, Marshall Soyars, will my "oot" back to "hoose."

I, Sarah Stephenson, will another $10 fee to the chemistry department to make up for the broken articles.

I, Susan Stone, will my love of bridge to Goren.

I, Carole Sullivan, will my low voice to Cynthia Finley, who is such a soprano.

I, Barbara Turner, will my braces to Marjorie Caine.

I, Michael Von Canon, will—I don't know when, but I will.

I, Ann Walker, will my curly hair to Graham, who simply adores curls.

I, Anne Leland Warner, will my love for Baylor to Emmy in order to keep it in the family.

I, Joy Wessenauer, will my bean . . . to 115.

I, Eleanor Willingham, will my ability to fall in love with everybody who comes along to Evelyn Ferger, who can never stick to just one.

I, Lois Winer, will my ability to be at the end of every roll to Mary Eleanor Woodruff, who has the same sad fate.

Class Prophecy

Listen, my friends, and you shall hear
The future fate of the seniors dear:
Presh, of course, is found in Kentucky;
A horse at her ranch is thought quite lucky.
Sandra's the owner of many a jeep;
At colors outlandish, she'll give you a peep.
Anne Leland's football team made history;
"Hardy"—men all, and that's no mystery.
Sylvia's become our ambassador to Spain;
Soon she'll return to the U.S. by plane.
Amy is married; each boy now sings,
For this means an end to her collection of rings.
Elizabeth and Rita are famous golf "Pros,"
A goal they've reached by defeating all foes.
Don and Maria have at last hit Broadway,
They've made a success in many a play.
Mary Moore, while deciphering the Einstein theory,
Is writing her own in case she gets weary.
The construction business with Lindsey as boss
Is rebuilding G.P.S.—her alma mater at cost.
Ellie has become the world's second Houdini;
She always squirmed out of places too "teeny."
Students of music go to Eleanor Dixon to learn;
With beginners of accordion she's especially stern.
Muffet's latest book, I Conquered the Universe,
With Charlotte's Secrets of Baylor runs a close first.
Two world renowned artists from our class have we;
These are Nancy Franklin and Lynda Lee.
Frances and Mary Brooks have reached their ambitions
And are two of Erlanger's best technicians.
The annual A.M.A. election is near;
Michael, no doubt, will be surgeon of the year.
Flash! The police are sending a state-wide alarm;
Dangerous animals escaped the Harris and Turner Feline Farm!
Harvey's reached the sublime heights of fashion;
Clothes and Baylor were always her passion!
Ann Walker's London home fills all with elation—
Her motive, to be on time for the next Coronation.
The Olympic season is not at all dull;
The main star none other than Nancy Turnbull.
L. J. has at last conquered Trigonometry;
Patience, Miss Moyer, pays off—you'll see.
Marshall still travels the globe near and far;
Her latest conveyance, a European sports car.
Virginia and Peggy own their own school—
No more trips to G.P.S. by a loaded car pool!
Cynthia's convinced no rabbit can equal the "Bunny!"
Sally dominates conversation with many a word;
An influence left from a French class bird.
Used car lots still offer cars galore,
But when in need, they turn to Judy for more.
Sewanee's adopted a brand new policy;
Joan Heberer is founder of a mountain sorority.
Eleanor, our missionary, is in Africa once more;
Next she'll be carrying "Zoo-boo" curses door to door!
Hilda, our May Queen, is now Miss Universe.
Joan Gough set records as a technical nurse.
Pat Collins won't forget the air force.
Thelma's still supporting U.T.—of course!
"Deak" is a doctor—famous as can be.
Another math teacher is our own Emilee:
The Russian Ballet has one star in a million;
Look more closely and you'll see it's Lillian.
Nancy Reynolds has taken Miss Moore's place.
Carol insists touring Murphy is really no waste.
Lois has finally settled in Mobile:
To live there always was her ideal!
The New York Times boasts a star editor of society—
A new "Dot and Dash"—but still the same Dorothy.
Pat's voice has taken the nation by storm;
A truer "Met" success has never been born.
Teaching English in Mexico is Sarah Stephenson.
The "Stoney" system of bridge—many praises has won.
The author of this recent best seller we'll tell;
Memories of Chickamauga Lake by none other than Rochelle.
Although everyone certainly did worry,
It may please you all to know, that because of a hurry—
Unusual as the story may seem—
Joy couldn't leave her bean to 115!
The aforementioned characters being real and true,
We accept no responsibility for what they actually might do.
If we were able to gaze into the crystal ball and see.
Our presentation to you would then be a true prophecy.

Rochelle Deitch
